What the Editor Heard.

A STORY FROM CAYUGA CO., N. Y.

Miss Pennell, of Niles, N. Y., tells of a Miracle of the Nineteenth Century.

(From the Cayuga Co., N. Y., Independent.)

Hearing through Messrs. Allen & Burch, druggists of Niles, that Mr. Silas Z. Pennell, a respected citizen of that town, had been cured of a bad case of sciatic rheumatism by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, the editor of the Cayuga County Independent determined to know the truth of the matter and went out to Niles. Mr. Pennell is a farmer and has a neat and comfortable home near Niles. We asked Mr. Pennell if it was true that he had been cured of a bad case of rheumatism by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He said that three years ago in August 1891, he was seized with severe pains in the hip, just where the sciatic nerve is, which gradually ran down his leg making life a misery to him but not preventing him from doing some work on the farm. Soon after he was loading hay when he slipped off the load and hit his hip on the wheel. After this he was worse, suffering great agony, and for some time was unable to do any work. He took such medicines as his physician prescribed and improved somewhat so that he could help some around the farm again. About Thanksgiving time he was helping to put away some barrels of cider which he had made, when he strained himself and again became helpless. He then tried another physician who felt confident of curing him by the use of the electric battery and medicines which he prescribed. But failure was the result, he got no better, and another physician was tried and treated him for some time. By this time his whole body was affected. Sharp pains would start in his hand or foot, run up one side of his body, over his shoulder and then down the other side and then pass off for a short time. These pains would return regularly, affecting his whole body, and nothing seemed to relieve him and he began to despair of ever being well. In the spring of 1892 a relative in another county read of a case very similar to Mr. Pennell's, which had been cured by Pink Pills, and sent the article to him, asking if it did not suit his case. It was very similar and he determined to try them. He commenced taking Pink Pills and soon felt better, the pains became less violent with longer intervals between them. He felt encouraged and persevered in their use and soon became able to work on the farm, and in April or May he felt so free from pain that he considered himself a well man again. He says he has probably taken 20 boxes and able to do as good a day's work as any other man, and we can say that he looks like a hale and hearty man who had never known pain.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

AFRICA'S WHITE NATIVES.

Further Reasons for Believing There Is Such a People.

There have always been vague traditions of a white race locked up in the interior, but when the tales have come to be tested the white race generally turns out to be merely a tribe of lighter colored Arabs, keeping all the characteristics of the race and having none of the white man's, says the London Daily News. But in this race we have something much more correct and precise.

Capt. Larymore, at present A. D. C. to Sir Francis Scott, was sent up to Koranza on a mission, and stayed a considerable time in the capital. He took advantage of the opportunity to inquire about this comparatively unknown race and its neighbors, and was surprised to find that there lived an indefinite number of days' marches to the northeast, a tribe of white men. Further inquiry elicited the statement that they lived on the skirts of a desert, which was difficult and dangerous to cross. Attempts had been made to avoid this desert by passing through their country, but they were found to be so fierce and so absolutely devoid of fear that the caravans preferred the dangers of the desert to the hostility of the white tribe.

Such circumstantial statements induced Capt. Larymore to make stricter inquiries, and at length he found a Mohammedan priest and Hadji, a man of great integrity and considerable influence. He had been to Mecca, and it was on his way there and back that he actually saw with his own eyes one of this white tribe.

The man in question was armed only with a bow and arrow, but such is the reputation of fierceness possessed by the race that the caravan did not remain long in his vicinity, but left the place as quickly as possible. Al Hadji saw him distinctly. Capt. Larymore, who, by the way, is a type of the fair Saxon, interrupted the priest in his story, and said that the man must have been simply a light-colored Arab. "No," said Al Hadji, "I saw him close at hand and he had light hair and blue eyes, exactly as you have." This statement, and the confirmation it had received by many rumors and tales, was one of extreme importance, considering the strict integrity of the man who made it. Consequently, Capt. Larymore took down his testimony in writing. The existence of such a race is firmly believed in by most of the gold coast travelers, and, among others, by Sir Francis Scott.

Unfortunately, owing to the fact that the reckoning of the progress of the caravan is done in the most careless way, the spot cannot be located. Al Hadji says it is many days from Koranza, which might mean 100 or 1,000 miles.

CHOW CHOP SUEY.

Ingredients of the Favorite Dish of Patrons of Chinese Restaurants.

The favorite dish of patrons of the Chinese restaurants is chow chop suey. Nine-tenths of the persons who eat in Chinatown's restaurants order it, and its selection has become so common that it is the one dish announced by the Chinese waiters to the guests, says the New York Sun.

"Chow chop suey, much good twenty-five cents, not much, good fifteen cents," is the usual announcement of the waiters in one of the biggest restaurants in Chinatown when asked what the place offers to eat.

Chow chop suey is the Chinese hash. It is made of little pieces of pork chopped up with onions and Chinese water beans. Other ingredients are supposed to be pieces of shark's fins, which taste like seasoned sole leather, little pieces of chicken—and they are very little and scarce in the ordinary dish—and some birds' nest, although the ordinary diner need not be afraid of getting any of this Chinese luxury with his chop suey. The most remarkable feature of the Chinese restaurants is their cheapness. For 15 cents one can get enough chop suey to make a meal for two. Freshly drawn tea is served gratis to each patron, but sugar and milk cost extra.

Japanese Explorers.

Japan, too, has been exploring. The professor of astronomy in the university of Tokio, Mr. Nomaka, accompanied by his wife, last October ascended Mount Fujiyama, 12,000 feet high, to make meteorological observations in the course of the winter. A short time ago word was received that the professor was dying, and a relief expedition was fitted out. With great difficulty the members of the expedition reached the snow-covered hut. Prof. Nomaka was found to be exceedingly weak and unable to move, but his wife had suffered no evil results from the exposure. Nomaka was taken back to Tokio, but he declares he will return next winter, and his wife says she will accompany him again.

Hannibal, in one of his early campaigns in Italy, lost an eye by having it struck with a branch of a tree.

SHOOTS WITH ONE ARM.

A Hunter Who Kills Game to Support a Family of Seven.

For 28 years Thomas Allen of Monterey, familiarly known as "Allen the Hunter," has been making a living for seven people with his left arm and a gun, says the San Francisco Examiner. One day, when he was only 15 years of age, he was out hunting ducks on the Monterey lagoon. In some manner his gun caught and was discharged, wounding him in his right arm near the shoulder.

He lay in the tules with his arm bleeding profusely until he was picked up by some men who chanced to pass and was taken to his home. Dr. Canfield of Monterey and Dr. Callahan of San Francisco, both noted physicians in the early days of California, held a consultation. Owing to the great loss of blood they pronounced the boy beyond the reach of medical aid. His mother, however, called in an old Indian herb doctor, and before the year was out the boy was as well as ever, but minus his right arm.

Young Allen's father was a famous marksman, and the boy seemed to inherit a strong taste for hunting. When he was only four years old he would beg to go with his father to shoot the "little cats," as he called the cottontail rabbits which infested Monterey in those days. When five years old his career as a hunter began, for his father took him out in a field adjoining their home, placed the gun over a chair, and let him shoot at one of the little cats. He killed it, and from that moment he has always had a mania for hunting all sorts of game.

When Mr. Allen was 15 and the accident occurred that resulted in the loss of his right arm he thought that his hunting days were over. As his father died shortly before, part of the support of the family devolved upon him. At first he tried the gaming table, as it seemed his only resource.

"In those days," said he, in speaking of the matter recently, "20 gold pieces were more common than nickels are to-day. But I didn't like the ups and downs of a gambler's life and the associations, so I gave it up and determined to learn to shoot with my left arm."

POCKETED HIS PRIDE.

Patriotism Prevented Him from Speaking, But Not Walking, Spanish.

"Madam," said the tattered wretch, as the woman of the house came to the door, "you see before you a victim of the worst governmental tyranny on the face of the globe."

"You look it," answered the woman, according to the Buffalo Express. "My looks do not deceive you. Yet, madam, I can assure you that it humbles me greatly to be compelled to ask alms of you. Two short months ago, madam, I was rich enough to have bought all the houses on this street."

"Indeed?" said the woman, growing interested.

"Yes," pursued the wanderer. "I had a great plantation, acres of sugar cane and tobacco, hundreds of negroes to do my bidding. I spent my time in idleness and luxury. I never had a want that I could not gratify by a wave of my hand."

"Where was all this?"

"In Cuba, madam. I am a Cuban refugee. My plantation was burned by the cruel Spaniards because I had given aid to the patriots. My wife and children were murdered, my dependents all scattered and I—"

"If you're a Cuban," interrupted the woman, "prove it by talking Spanish."

"Madam," said the tramp, with a pained expression, "in the part of Cuba where I lived the people were such patriots that they never used the Spanish language. They talked only English."

"Oh," said the woman, "then there's one other way in which you can prove what you say."

"It is humiliating to me to have my word doubted. My Cuban pride revolts against it, but my hunger for the mince pie which I can smell from your kitchen forces me to pocket my pride. Name your other test and it shall be fulfilled."

"You might walk Spanish," said the woman, with a smile, as she shut the door.

New Bunco Game.

A new bunco game, new at least in the neighborhood where it is being successfully worked, is costing the farmers and country storekeepers of Lane county, Ore., a good deal of money. The swindler claims to be a treasury detective looking for counterfeit coin. He asks the farmers and storekeepers to submit their coin for inspection. He puts on the silver dollars a chemical solution which turns them black, declares them spurious, and takes them with him. He also impressively warns his victims that they are liable to arrest for having counterfeit money in their possession, and causes them to keep very quiet about the matter, thus helping him along in his work of bunco.
